the $10 million program for progress

"With appreciation for the past, with a sense of satisfaction for the present day progress, and inspired by what it may become, Southwestern University looks to a future that is most promising."

The $10 Million Program for Progress will orient Southwestern to the future—undergirding the University for maximum service to its students in this decade."

—President Durwood Fleming

Behind the window is a tree. At night, a light shines on it, and the tree appears to be a swaying dark green object against a dark sky background. It is a night prowler who can't get inside. When caught by the light, he shakes and sways to show his frustration. B.C.

How many times; We can't begin to enumerate! We have received complaints from the student body regarding the "inconveniences" we have caused them. It is time for us to complain about the petty inconveniences your insignificant squabbles have caused us. If you people complain, make it about something worthwhile. Your childish nature over an extended fifteen minutes during registration, your complete ignorance of selection of proofs, and objection of having a picture in the yearbook. A reason for not wanting the picture to appear to some people is because of an invasion of privacy. Your excuses bother us. Our answer—What would you have done during the fifteen minutes? Study? No, as a matter of fact, you would probably have been in the SUB drinking a Coke. And, regarding the invasion of privacy, your privacy is still intact. We don't know the juicy, intimate details, nor do we care to know.

Look at this book, compare it with last year's. We believe you will agree that the total student body in this yearbook looks better than a quarter of the same number in last year's. In the future, you will be glad that this year's staff established the policy of showing the whole student body rather than the few of yesteryear. This book is something we are proud of NOW. Wait twenty years before you burn this book.

The social life on and around campus is very limited. Really I should not be extremely critical about this factor because I have no substitution for what now exists. The fraternities quite often limit themselves to beer parties, but really I observe that this is very much liked. F.S.

I've stumbled into a pretty good school. Anon.

Every building is within walking distance from any point on campus. I think this is one of the advantages of a small college or university mainly for the reason that a small campus does away with the hustle-bustle or automobile comprised of people who I would not have met on the sidewalk unless otherwise. It all started on that fateful Sunday when all good freshmen were supposed to show up on campus and register for their rooms. By some odd coincidence, I had been selected as one of the chosen few to be allowed a room, a bed, a chest of drawers and one half of a desk in the noble Martin-Ruter Dormitory. . . . The walls were stark naked, the blinds were pulled to the ceiling, and the towel rod in my closet was gone. I looked at my room and compared it to the memory I had of the rooms in Herman-Brown. At that time despair clouded into my mind. M.H.

Southwestern, while having many fine qualities, often seems to be missing something. It is situated in Central Texas which abounds with hills, beautiful trees and blue lakes yet while the campus is neat, well organized and quaint, this beauty seems only surface deep. While talking to many people one soon learns this campus has had its share of scandals and payoffs. E.P.

. . . but I am still lonely. I need my girl friend. P.L.

the rats

Distractions in the dorm are very numerous. People come in and out while some try to study. Somebody will want to watch television or listen to the stereo. There is always someone who wants to go to the D.Q. around eight o'clock every night and they want me to take them or they want me to lend them my car. When my roommates get tired of studying, which usually doesn't take long, they mope around the dorm looking for something to do. They can't understand why I don't want to go to Walburg every night. Most of the time the only alternative to this type of situation is to hibernate in the library. L.P.

*There is beauty and beauty—
There is the chapel, so lovely, and then the beer busts
There are those friendly people, also the fakes
There are those genuine people always helping you.
There are those professors warm and sympathizing,
There are the tests—grind yourself in the floor!
There are the cultured, courageous, the bitches
and the bastards, too.
There are fun parties, also the dull frat parties.
There is noise and quiet.
There is loneliness, happiness, and fun.
I hate it and I love it. H.L.*

When I first came to Southwestern, I was given the idea that there was a great amount of free time to participate in extracurricular activities. This idea is, however, a great fallacy ... I need three hours of free time a day to play tennis to stay in shape. Here at Southwestern, I spend at least four hours a day in class, one hour for lunch, and five hours in lab. This limits my daytime practice time to one hour which is not used for practice but for study. A.A.

I think that I shall never see
A school as filled with apathy
As our own Southwestern University.
They wake, they rise,
With bloodshot eyes
From having fun and living lies.
T.L.

There is no need in waiting for meeting people. They pop up and meet you ... The people are friendly. The campus is pretty. The teachers are all eager to help you. You can call it a pretty nice place to be. C.L.

herman-brown

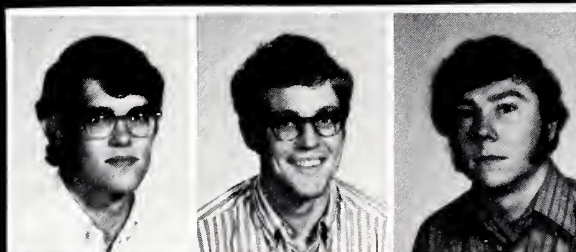

Southwestern may be small, but it draws the people closer together to make a more enjoyable atmosphere. Friends are nice to have, and here friends you do make. Southwestern is a school to enjoy, but a school to work at. The achievements are more significant with the more time and work the person puts in. B.T.

When I came to Southwestern, I was scared. I really didn't know why except that here I was coming to college. C.C.

The agony of Southwestern is Organic Chemistry! "Don't wait until the last night to STUDY," states Dr. Soulen, but everyone does. When will we ever learn?! D.O.

I have gone through some pretty hard times getting this section done in time for the publishers. If it hadn't been for Debbie Cheyne and Debbie Parker, the section would really have been in a mess. Those girls will take an idea and toy around with it till it becomes a masterpiece.

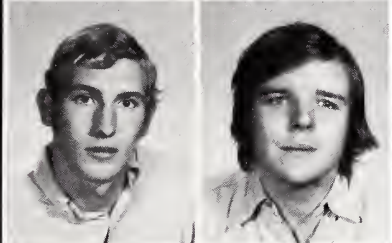

Hope that you like this-rather-dull-section-to-put-together better than the past year's. Minds really clattered for several weeks coming up with a new plan.

Again thanks to my staff for turning out such an artful project.

homecoming queen
susan peace holley

The 1971 Homecoming Queen was chosen from the eight nominees selected by the students. Each class nominated two girls and a special selection committee made up of faculty and administration chose the queen. The presentation centered around the theme "You've Come A Long Way Baby!" and the nominees were dressed in fashions from the 1930's—1970's. The skit and presentation of the Homecoming Queen, Mrs. Susan Peace Holley, was directed and presented by the Union Hospitality Committee.

sou'wester superlatives

The Sou'wester Staff has selected the following students as the Sou'wester Superlatives for 1971-72. These are the students that the staff considered to be outstanding in the categories represented and felt that recognition of their efforts was overdue. Each of these students has made a sizeable contribution to the field for which they are recognized as well as to the entire campus community.

at southwestern you have been happy and you have been sad. you have worked and you have played. you have lost and you have gained. in fact, you have done all the things everyone does, but you have still been able to be yourself.

this sou'wester is dedicated to you! it's made to help you remember the simple things... like the long waiting lines in the commons, the late night pranks in the dorm, or tuesday morning drinking coffee in the sub. it's made to remind you of the things that you did every day while you lived in georgetown.

the sou'wester staff hopes that our efforts will enable you to one day look back, remember, and smile!
